Interactive Murder Mystery Events

It's Showtime

When preparing the room...

During an event the actors – dressed as suspicious characters - will spend time with guests at their tables so it is important that the tables:

- ✓ ...have a similar number of guests on them. During a performance each of the "characters" will join the guests at their tables to be interrogated. If you have a five minute meeting with a table of 18 guests and then a five minute meeting with a table of two guests it's easy to see who is going to find the event more interactive and who is not. In this case, we would suggest breaking the larger group in two and proposing that they play in competition with themselves as well as the rest of the audience.
- ✓ ...are arranged in the space chronologically in a clock wise fashion. This makes it a lot easier for the actors to find their way around the audience.
- ✓ ...with a space in the centre (we recommend 2m² minimum free from obstruction) in which the murder will take place. Remember, that we do carry firearms in most of our events and they are loud so we do ask that common sense prevails when laying out a room to accommodate an "explosive" event!
- ✓ Please remove all whistles, hooters and party-poppers as they can prove too tempting a distraction for some audiences.

When preparing the kitchen...

Your Money Penny Productions cast will always endeavour to arrive on site at 18.00 and can be ready within thirty minutes of arrival. Contact mobile numbers, names and vehicle registration details can be provided in advance if necessary (MOD requirement).

We recommend that an audience arrives and has pre-dinner drinks between 19.00 and 19.45. We ask that the duty manager confirms with our MC a sit down time that suits the venue and client and we will accommodate that with a suitable announcement.

If your event has two courses (Main and Dessert) we would advise an immediate start at 20.00 with an opening performance that lasts thirty minutes. This means you should expect Main course to be served at 20.30 with dessert served when ready.

If your event has three courses (Starter, Main and Dessert) we would advise the audience to be sat, the starter served and cleared with a thirty minute gap before the serving of main course. Most kitchens accommodate this request as it's a simple point of timing. Dessert can be served when ready.

As each show is equipped with a variety of props and weapons may we kindly ask that staff don't interrupt or cross the performance area during the show for their own safety.

If you know you are having another Money Penny Murder Mystery Event sometime after this occasion please confirm ticketing information as we'll attend with promotional material for the guests to leave with.

Most events with a sit-down time of 20.00 conclude between 22.15 and 22.30

Lastly, we don't supply prizes but a general public audience may expect a bottle of wine/champagne for the winning table.

Rider list: Provision should be made for a lockable room in which to change, 1 x pot of tea, 1 x pot of coffee, 4 x Rounds of Sandwiches prior to the event taking place. This is contracted and should be charged to either the venue or clients account.
